John,

I'm a Presidential Management Fellow based in North Carolina with the Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards. As part of the PMF program, I'm getting ready to do a rotation with the International Energy Agency in Paris later this year.

Steve Page suggested I might find it helpful to me to speak with you at some point about your experience in Paris with OECD. Would you be open to me setting up a half-hour call with you within the next couple weeks or so? Let me know what would be most convenient for you.

Thanks,
Ben

Hi again, John. First, thanks again a LOT for speaking to me last night. It was the most helpful conversation I have had with anyone thus far. I have two additional questions, if you do not mind. First, how much should I put into the fact that Achim is not making time to see me and not taking the initiative to respond to my second letter in which I said I was concerned about the reporting lines, etc? (I will forward the correspondence in case you would have time to look at it.)

Second, when I speak to him, Monique suggested I propose that I report directly to the ED but have a second reporting line for some aspects of the Job to the Chief of the Office for Operations. Have you ever heard of such a reporting structure--or can you imagine some kind of compromise reporting structure?

Thanks in advance for any thoughts.

Cheers,

Brennan

Hi Charly,

Nope. Between the holidays and some work travel I have not been in Arlington since before Christmas. I will get back some time this weekend and should be in town for a couple of weeks.

Hope you had a great Christmas in Africa and thanks for the movie invite a week or so ago. I would have jumped at it had I been there. Didn't see your email until several days later.

Hi John:

Quick note to say that if you are going to Costco anytime soon, I would greatly appreciate your picking up French Roast bag of coffee and of course, flea medicine for cats if they have some. Hope you are well. Did you watch all the great basketball over the weekend? What fun. Let me know when you are around on the weekends so I can invite you over for drinks on my balcony.

Thanks for asking about Costco John. We have plenty of Mangos so not to worry. One bag of French Roast coffee would be great. And of course, Frontline anti-flea for cats (which they never seem to have). Yes, I'd love to have dinner next Monday. I have a delicious bottle of French burgundy that needs drinking (we could try one of the restaurants near my house if you like).

Sorry to hear you will miss the party but I understand. Did you know my family is coming over at the end of the July? We may be looking for a place to crash. I think BVD has asked Nancy about it so you may be in the loop.

Hi Charly,

First the good news-I am hoping to go to Costco soon. Anything besides mangos I can get for you and yours?

Next the better news-any chance we could have dinner Monday night?

Now the bad news. I am going on another trip next Tuesday. Be gone two or three weeks. Sorry that I will miss your party.

Hi Charly-Sorry for the slow response but my plans have been up in the air and changing the last few days. As you know the truck is in Truro and I was hoping that I could find a way to bring it back to Arlington for October. It is pretty clear now that I will not be able to do that. However, it does look like I (sans truck) will be in Arlington for most of the week of October 17th. I would be happy to give you a hand moving stuff that week if it would be helpful.

We are looking forward to seeing you Thursday evening, rain or shine. Drinks and hors d'oeuvres will be served on the ship, which has ample enclosed indoor space for everyone. and is well-suited for cruising in any kind of weather.

Directions:

Captain Eric warns us that many GPS systems guide users to the wrong location. Please go to the link below, and read the directions carefully. The entrance is on Maine Ave, just west of the Fish Market and south of the Mandarin Hotel (via pedestrian walkway). If you are driving, the dock is best approached from 15th Street because Maine Ave is one-way at the entrance. (Or, the Smithsonian Metro stop is only 3 blocks away). The link also includes low-cost parking options.

John,

The deadline for having completed the mandatory 2012 Security Awareness Training course online was June 30. Since you have not taken it, the security team has locked your account and you will not be able to login to your files until it is completed.

Betsy Shaw asked that I send you a note about this to see if you need access to your electronic files on your computer at this point. If you do, then we will work to find a way to have you complete the training so your access can be restored.

Subject Re: Timecard for PP17

Hi Emily,

Sorry that my last email was a bit confusing. August 6 thru the 10th should be annual leave. Also, this week August 13 thru the 17th will also be annual leave. After that back to regular time for a while.

I really appreciate the great job you do with all this. Thanks again.

By now you will not be shocked when I report to you that my schedule has been changed once again. I had told you that I planned to be on leave this week but in fact I am stuck working this week. Same as last week.

As of now I expect to be using annual leave next week and the week after.

Thanks so much Emily.

Hi Emily,

I hope your leave is going great and welcome back next week. Good luck with catching up with things on Tuesday.

I want to update you on my time. The week of May 14 should be regular time. I was not able to take leave as I had hoped.

Also, the weeks of May 21 and 28 should also be regular time. I am out of the country now but hope to be back in the middle of June.

John,

Joe Simmons has put in a ticket with EZTech to have the blue screen issue addressed, as well as to have the equipment (phone and computer) move to your new cube. 5426G. Building services has been notified to remove the keyboard holder from your new cube.

I have left 5 blank leave slips in your new cube and a note to remind you that when you are back in the office and your computer is working, I can help you update the WebForms profile so you can submit leave slips to Betsy for approval and to me for processing.

John, Emily and I will get your cube cleared of Darrel's stuff while you are away. Orders have been placed to move your computer and phone. (Emily, please work with Joseph to get a new wristpad for the keyboard holder in that cube.) As we discussed, you should call in a ticket with EZTech about your blue screen problem.

For your upcoming leave and in future, please submit leave slips in advance to Betsy, who will sign off on them in lieu of Gina. If you don't have access to Webforms due to your computer problem, Emily can give you a hard copy.

Subject Draft Note

1) Here is a draft of a note that you could use for OAR

I am (delighted) (pleased) (saddened) (infuriated) to announce that Deputy Assistant Administrator John Beale will be resuming his role as the immediate office's lead for all of OAR's international work. Most of you know John well as he has been a (towering) (major) (insignificant) presence in much of OAR's work for over 20 years.

In addition to lead roles in the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments, the early implementation of the Act, the development and negotiation of the National Low Emission Vehicle Program, and the 1997 NAAQS review, John served as OAR's lead for international work from 1990 thru 2005. In 1999 John became OAR's DAA for climate change as well as all other international work.

In addition to the international work John will continue to work on various special projects for me. He is supposed to be sitting in 5426B, but good luck finding him.

2) It may be useful to have the following information about my checkered past when you mention this to OITA and others on the third floor:

3 Gold Medals

Lee M Thomas Award for Excellence in Management

Fitzhugh Green Award for Outstanding Contributions to International Environmental Protection

Presidential Award for Meritorious Service

3) Would you like me to attend the all day planning session on Dec. 9th?

The Inflection Is Near?

By THOMAS L. FRIEDMAN

Sometimes the satirical newspaper The Onion is so right on, I can't resist quoting from it. Consider this faux article from June 2005 about America's addiction to Chinese exports:

FENGHUA, China — Chen Hsien, an employee of Fenghua Ningbo Plastic Works Ltd., a plastics factory that manufactures lightweight household items for Western markets, expressed his disbelief Monday over the “sheer amount of [garbage] Americans will buy. Often, when we’re assigned a new order for, say, ‘salad shooters,’ I will say to myself, ‘There’s no way that anyone will ever buy these.’ ... One month later, we will receive an order for the same product, but three times the quantity. How can anyone have a need for such useless [garbage]? I hear that Americans can buy anything they want, and I believe it, judging from the things I’ve made for them,” Chen said. “And I also hear that, when they no longer want an item, they simply throw it away. So wasteful and contemptible.”

Let’s today step out of the normal boundaries of analysis of our economic crisis and ask a radical question: What if the crisis of 2008 represents something much more fundamental than a deep recession? What if it’s telling us that the whole growth model we created over the last 50 years is simply unsustainable economically and ecologically and that 2008 was when we hit the wall — when Mother Nature and the market both said: “No more.”

We have created a system for growth that depended on our building more and more stores to sell more and more stuff made in more and more factories in China, powered by more and more coal that would cause more and more climate change but earn China more and more dollars to buy more and more U.S. T-bills so America would have more and more money to build more and more stores and sell more and more stuff that would employ more and more Chinese ...

We can’t do this anymore.

“We created a way of raising standards of living that we can’t possibly pass on to our children,” said Joe Romm, a physicist and climate expert who writes the indispensable blog climateprogress.org. We have been getting rich by depleting all our natural stocks — water, hydrocarbons, forests, rivers, fish and arable land — and not by generating renewable flows.

“You can get this burst of wealth that we have created from this rapacious behavior,” added Romm. “But it has to collapse, unless adults stand up and say, ‘This is a Ponzi scheme. We have not generated real wealth, and we are destroying a livable climate ...’ Real wealth is something you can pass on in a way that others can enjoy.”

Over a billion people today suffer from water scarcity; deforestation in the tropics destroys an area the size of Greece every year — more than 25 million acres; more than half of the world’s fisheries are over-fished or fished at their limit.

“Just as a few lonely economists warned us we were living beyond our financial means and overdrawing our financial assets, scientists are warning us that we’re living beyond our ecological means and overdrawing our natural assets,” argues Glenn Prickett, senior vice president at Conservation International. But, he cautioned, as environmentalists have pointed out: “Mother Nature doesn’t do bailouts.”

One of those who has been warning me of this for a long time is Paul Gilding, the Australian environmental business expert. He has a name for this moment — when both Mother Nature and Father Greed have hit the wall at once — “The Great Disruption.”

“We are taking a system operating past its capacity and driving it faster and harder,” he wrote me. “No matter how wonderful the system is, the laws of physics and biology still apply.” We must have growth, but we must grow in a different way. For starters, economies need to transition to the concept of net-zero, whereby buildings, cars, factories and homes are designed not only to generate as much energy as they use but to be infinitely recyclable in as many parts as possible. Let’s grow by creating flows rather than plundering more stocks.

Gilding says he’s actually an optimist. So am I. People are already using this economic slowdown to retool and reorient economies. Germany, Britain, China and the U.S. have all used stimulus bills to make huge new investments in clean power. South Korea's new national paradigm for development is called: "Low carbon, green growth." Who knew? People are realizing we need more than incremental changes — and we're seeing the first stirrings of growth in smarter, more efficient, more responsible ways.

In the meantime, says Gilding, take notes: "When we look back, 2008 will be a momentous year in human history. Our children and grandchildren will ask us, 'What was it like? What were you doing when it started to fall apart? What did you think? What did you do?' " Often in the middle of something momentous, we can't see its significance. But for me there is no doubt: 2008 will be the marker — the year when 'The Great Disruption' began.

Dear Colleague,

Further to my earlier email dated 10th May 2012 (copied below), I now have pleasure in attaching the main papers for discussion together with a slightly revised final agenda.

We look forward to seeing you those of you who have arranged to come to Washington at the end of this week. If you have any further questions on the content of the meeting or travel arrangements etc please do not hesitate to contact me (mobile +44 7949785499 from Wed when I am travelling) or Emma Holland (Email: Emma Holland" <emma.wright@york.ac.uk>; Office Phone: +44 1904 432897).

Important Note: For access to State Dept. On Friday – you will need to supply DOB, nationality and passport number (with photo ID). Please send to me, and copying in Emma, at least 24 to 48 hours in advance.

For those of you who are unable to attend on this occasion, we would be very grateful to receive any comments you may have on the papers. If we can have them ahead of the meeting that would be very helpful.

Many thanks for your cooperation and looking forward to your inputs

Best Regards

Kevin

Dear Colleague,

Facilitating the Development of SLCP Action Planning in Developing Countries

Thank you very much for agreeing to join the International Advisory Group (IAG) for this project. We very much look forward to exploring with you over the next two years the numerous challenging issues raised by the project. We are particularly grateful to those of you who are able at short notice to attend or be represented at the meeting in Washington on May 31st and June 1st. For those of you unable to attend we will be in touch prior to the meeting so that your comments may still be tabled.

The meeting will open at 5.00 pm on the Thursday 31st May at the Georgetown Inn (where accommodation is being arranged for you) and continue over an informal supper at 7 pm. The meeting will then resume at 9 am on the Friday 1st June at the State Department (venue to be confirmed), finishing about 3 pm that day. We will also be planning more informal meetings with you in Washington during the day on the 31st May.

Please find attached a provisional annotated agenda for the meeting which will give you an indication of the main issues which we would like to discuss with the IAG. The final agenda and supporting papers will be circulated a week before the meeting; by 25th May.

Meanwhile, for those of you who may not have seen them, please be informed that the two UNEP reports which were a formative influence on current international policy initiatives on SLCPs, and provide much on the context for the project can be downloaded at:

<http://www.unep.org/dewa/Assessments/Ecosystems/ClimateChange/tabid/7002/Default.aspx>.

The key documents are:

- Integrated Assessment of Black Carbon and Tropospheric Ozone
- Near-term Climate Protection and Clean Air Benefits: Actions for Controlling Short-Lived Climate Forcers
- HFCs: A Critical Link in Protecting Climate and the Ozone Layer

An outline of the project was attached to your IAG invite as an annex but I attach it again here for your convenience.

Our colleague, Emma Holland (nee Wright - recently married for those who know her already) is available to provide any assistance you may need with travel arrangements or other matters. (+44 1904 432 897; emma.wright@york.ac.uk). If there is any matter you would like to discuss in advance on the substance of the project and the agenda, please do not hesitate to get in touch with me. We look forward to being in touch again a week before the meeting, and to seeing many of you in Washington on May 31st.

Best Regards

Kevin

Looking forward to dinner with you and Marion. To bad Nancy cant be there.

As things turn out I am free for dinner with you either Mon. or Tues night. Whichever is best for both of you.

If Monday is best let me know when and where to meet you. I should clear the airport by about 615. I can go to my hotel for awhile or head directly to a restaurant. I will have my GPS so all I should need is an address.

Sorry to ask you to pick the place but, I know nothing. In my case that can be said about most things.....

Just wanted to see if you were in the vicinity this week and whether you had half an hour or so to catch up if you were. I'm in DC until late Friday afternoon and would love to say hello and hear more about your next set of projects. Jessica,

I am very sorry but my schedule has been changed and I will not be able to get to EPA at all today. I was looking forward to our lunch but that will have to wait until the next time you are here or I am in India I guess. Once things settle down a bit I will contact you to see if we can at least have a phone call.

There is a chance that I will be in at EPA for a day next week. Should your travel plans change so that you are here next week please let me know. Otherwise, Safe travels.

Hi John,

Jeremy Symons would still like to get together with you in DC over lunch. Lunch is Jeremy's treat.

Do any of the following dates work for you for lunch in DC?

Tue, May 3           flexible time
Thu, May 5           flexible time
Mon, May 9           flexible time

We can look at more dates if none of these work for you.

Thank you.

John -

As I sat down this morning to convert my current govt resume into a version more readable to the outside-DC world, I realized that I converted to pdf and sent you an old draft version (very drafty, to say the least) rather than the clean version of my current govt resume. If you've not yet opened it up, I advise against doing so. I'll hold off a resend until this afternoon, at which time I'll have the outside-DC version ready to fly.

Subject: Follow Up

John -

Thank you again for your time and for your efforts on my behalf.

I've sent a note off to Rob, and I will send a note and resume to David Wooley tomorrow (Thurs).

I had planned on updating my resume tomorrow to be a bit more outside-of-government friendly -- over the last year, its been fashioned for DC-eyes in very specific worlds, ....and its begun to look like an acronym-fest. But in meantime, so you have something in hand, I'll send you my most recent "governmenty" version.

Lastly, I realized after I left your office that I had forgotten to note to you that I would, in the future, be interested to hear more about your thoughts on analyst positions connected to climate/security/etc. in the intelligence community. (curiosity kills the cat?) In seriousness, though, I have promised myself I would explore all options -- and certainly that's an interesting path to consider if something ends up tying me to DC unexpectedly.

Hi Linda,

The bad news is that I have been on the "lammmmmmm" much more than I had hoped . Looks like I am committed to remaining a Federal employee until after the election.....

The better news is that if all goes well I should get back to the States sometime this weekend and should be around for awhile.

The good news is that we also should get to the Cape on August 11 and some combination of Nancy and I would love to see team Fisher
. Now it gets complicated.

On the 11th Nancy and I will be arriving on the Cape from Maine. We could stop and see y'all but you are just arriving that day as well so that would not be good for you. We have company coming the 12th for several days and Nancy has to be in NYC the 13th until the 18th. The day you leave.

This vacation sudoku sometimes makes my head hurt.

Unless something changes looks like it will be tough to find a day when both Nancy and I could see team Fisher but I could come your way Wed or Thursday of that week.

All of this is contingent upon my current state of knowledge and I have been "in the field" and out of cell/internet contact until tonight. I will talk to Nancy in the morning and get back to you if there are any changes.

In the meantime-got any better ideas?

Linda,

We would both really enjoy some time with team Fisher so if the 11th works that would be great with us. On the other hand we are sensitive that it can be difficult having visitors within a few hours of arrival.

We will be driving in from northern Maine. I am guessing that we would be passing thru the Dennis area sometime between 1600 and 1800. We could easily adjust that to suit your schedule. And as you said, there are always restaurants.

Wow! Vacations are for relaxing! Did you forget? Don't rule out the 11th yet, depending on when you would be passing through Dennis. We don't get into the house until 2:00 ish....but we may come up Friday and stay at Elaine Stanley's Friday night. I still have to figure this out, but will close on it this week. We could do beach, cocktails, or dinner...depending on your schedule.....or, if we are in total chaos, God invented restaurants for just such occasions! If that works best for you two, we can make it work. Fall back, you could come out later in the week. I will be in touch. Linda

Linda,

Thanks so much for a wonderful evening last Saturday. It is always a joy for us to be able to spend some time with you, Martha, and the kids.

It is amazing how much they both have matured and gained in confidence in the last two years. As you know they are terrific and you have done a great job with them. What a brave adventure your trip to Russia was!

Nancy and I both felt that we were just getting started on a number of "conversations" with each of you that would have been both fun and interesting to explore over a couple of days...

Our first set of company arrived last Sunday and left Friday morning and the next set arrived Friday afternoon. The beds were still warm!

Hope Team Fisher had a great week on the Cape and that your transition to the island went smoothly.

Travel safely and I hope to see you in the fall.

if you have a chance to talk before then, please call me. 564-1681

You can't tell Rob (I fear he would shoot me), but Scott Fulton has asked if I am interested in the Associate General Counsel for Air. Apparently Rich Ossias is unexpectedly retiring in a month (not sure that's public yet). Scott said that if I wanted the job it would solve a lot of problems for him.

I would love your advice on merits of OGC v. OPAR positions. I also feel like, at a minimum, I need to talk to Gina and get a better sense of what she has in mind for me and OPAR -- and could use your advice on that as well.

I see some real benefits in OGC-Air (like not having to elbow my way into a room) that may fit my personality better than OPAR. I also see some limitations with OGC-Air that I don't see with OPAR.

thanks

Lorie

Great! I arrive about 9AM on Thursday and lunch at 1145 would be perfect. Just tell me where to meet you and I will be there.

So far the holidays have been great. A big family gathering in Vt. for Christmas and now a smaller family get together at our cabin on Cape Cod for New Years. Pretty lucky.

It will be great to see you on Thursday! Happy New Year and safe travels.

What a delightful surprise! I'd love to have lunch with you. Thursday would work best for me. What time do you arrive in RTP? We could aim to meet at 11:45 or so if that works for you.

I hope you, Nancy and your family have had a good holiday season thus far. We were in CA over Christmas visiting family and plan to go to MA today for New Year's weekend to visit my stepdaughters, grandsons, partners, etc. So glad to hear from you John.

Hi Lydia,

I hope all is well with you and your family and that the holidays are bring joy and peace to you.

I am sorry for your sake to tell you that you haven't seen the last of me yet. I am planning on coming to RTP for Jeff's party next week and wondering if you would have time to have lunch with me either Thursday or Friday?

Looking forward to seeing you .

Logistics: would you give me your home mailing address and could Karen give us the recipe for the salad?

Thanks again Michael.

Let me know what you think. I gather from Catherine that the weather in the UK is not very good. What is the best number to reach you on if our plans are disrupted? Your old cell number?

Hi Richard,

I hope all is well with you and Katherine and that you are not having to travel more than you desire. And thanks for your great contribution to Jeff's party. It was both funny and deeply appreciated.

Guess what? Both Nancy and I will be in London next week ( 1/29-2/4 otherwise known as 29/1-4/2). Any chance we could take you and Katherine out to dinner?

Around 6.00pm would be fine, as Catherine has a table booked for 7.15 ish
There is a good fast train at 17.15, arriving 17.50, from platform 14 at Waterloo. Unless I hear otherwise from you I'll await that train. Our home number is 01483 539381.

Looking forward to seeing you both

Good idea about the phone number-best number for me is the same-202-215-3315.

If it works for you we will try to arrive in Guildford around 1800. Haven't checked the trains yet but will let you know when we are more sure.

Safe travels Richard.

Are you both ok with a fish restaurant (with only a few meat options)? Otherwise there are lots of other local options - Thai, Italian, French, Chinese, Indian etc - in easy walking distance. Let me know what you think.

I gather from Catherine that the weather in the UK is not very good. What is the best number to reach you on if our plans are disrupted? Your old cell number?

Sorry about the delay getting back to you - internet access a bit fitful.

If it is ok with you both, Guildford would be best for us. We can ensure you get a fast train this time. I will collect you from the station. After drinks in Epsom Road we can walk to a suitable restaurant. I will call about exact times etc on Friday evening or Saturday morning - I'm not back in the country till then.

Looking forward to seeing you both.

I should have Sat off. Have to work Sun and Mon. Should get back to DC Tues morning for a few days and then off on what I hope will be my last trip.

Have a great weekend. Say hi to Barb. Hope to see you Tues/Wed.

Sat does not work for us. And tonight works for us although Nancy would be late and may not make it at all depending on her work.

Complicated and uncertain probabilities.

Unless things have changed for you I suggest we leave it at Sunday...more for us is always a fine guiding principle.

Subject: Re: Friday Night?

Sorry for another round but...Sunday works fine for me but Nancy cannot make it. That's ok.

Sat does not work for us. And tonight works for us although Nancy would be late and may not make it at all depending on her work.

Complicated and uncertain probabilities.

Unless things have changed for you I suggest we leave it at Sunday...more for us is always a fine guiding principle.

Hi guys,

Since there is a pretty good chance of thunderstorms tomorrow afternoon, sitting outside at the Quarterdeck did not seem like a great idea. So Barb moved our reservation (it's still at 5:00) to the Liberty Tavern: 3195 Wilson Blvd, Arlington 22201, near the intersection of Washington Blvd. Tavern phone# (703) 465-9360. Casual dress is fine. They open at 5, so don't worry if you get there early and don't see much going on. More parking info on their web-site.

Please bounce me back a message after you see this so that I know you've seen the location change.

See you tomorrow,

Rob

Hi John,

Here are some names I've come up with. I'm cc-ing Rob, so that he can check against his list:

people with whom you worked in OITA (past and present)

- Joan Fidler
- Kathy Petruccelli
- Jerry Clifford
- Brian Muehling
- Anna Phillips
- Shalini Vajjhala
- Mark Kasman
- Jane Metcalfe
- Marianne Bailey (not sure if you worked with her on mercury-related issues)

big fans of your from R9

- Dave Fege
- Amy Zimpfer
- Laura Yoshii
- Nancy Woo

fans of yours from R6 (EPA and beyond)

- Bill Luthans
- Jim Yarbrough
- Bob Currey (UTEP)

some DOS colleagues (past and present)

- Dan Reifsnyder
- Drew Nelson
- Jonathan Pershing
- Nancy Nelson (from the Office of Canadian Affairs -- do you remember her?)
- Jeff Miotke
- David Randolph
- Grif Thompson
- Barbara Derosa-Joynt
- Susan Gordon

OAR alumni

- Meri Ames
- Barbara Pabotoy

- Prudence Goforth
- Shela Poke-Williams
- Esmie Marshall
- John Bachmann
- Tom Kelly
- Brian McLean

other past and present OAR-ers whom you may want to include

- Kevin Rosseel
- Mary-Emma Rice
- Jack Fitzgerald
- Jane Leggett
- Kathleen Hogan
- Chris Grundler
- Allison Davis
- Kimber Scavo
- Bill Harnett
- Rona Birnbaum

other folks who came to mind

- Tom McCully (not sure how much you worked with him -- but Rob knows him well)
- Richard Mills
- Karissa Kovner
- Kevin McLean
- Patricia Embrey
- Michael Bradley
- Al McGartland (???)
- Ken Peel
- David Sandalow
- Cynthia Brady

These are the first 50+ people who came to mind. I can probably come up with additional names if I give it more thought. 'Wanted to give you a chance to process these first.

BTW -- I'm co-teaching a 90-min fundraising ride (indoor cycling) this Sunday AM (April 22) to benefit the American Diabetes Association. Most of the bikes have already been reserved, but there are a few still available. If you're around and feel like pedaling for a good cause, let me know and I can send you the details. Obviously, we have to find another office for you but I'm not certain yet which one it will be. We need to remove your materials from the office next week. They will either be stored in the new office or in a locked, transitional space.

Are you comfortable with us boxing up files materials in the office, or do you prefer to do that yourself? Is there anything you want me to be aware of?

Hi Scott,

Thanks for forwarding this. Sue's meeting in San Francisco is important to the future of our Mexico program and Dave is a key player in that effort. I was aware that he was traveling from San Diego for the meeting. I am surprised that the Region has taken this position at the last minute. a case of penny wise and pond foolish I suspect.

In any case, I agree with Sue that in this case we should pay for his travel. I would not, however, want to make a practice of paying for a regional employee's travel from one of there offices to another.

Subject Quick Follow up

You mentioned that the AA/DAA meeting may be Wed. I am not sure if you meant tomorrow or next week. FYI, as I mentioned yesterday I have a command performance meeting out of the office all day tomorrow and Friday. Gina has one open hour tomorrow at 1000 tomorrow and some free time Friday PM. I am very flexible on Thurs. I am not asking you to change anything, just wanted you to know our situation.

The Embassy of Spain in Washington DC, the Mayor of the City of Rosario, Argentina and the Clean Air Institute are pleased to present the Official Launch of the Conference on Sustainable Transport, Air Quality and Climate Change in Latin America and the Caribbean, on March 23th, from 12 to 2 pm, at the Embassy of Spain in Washington DC (2375 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20037). The event will focus on identifying opportunities for cooperation aimed at multilateral organizations, foundations, corporations and other entities to participate in the conference as well as programs that are underway in the region to improve urban mobility and combat climate change.

The Conference will take place from 11-14 May in the city of Rosario, Argentina, supported by the Spanish Fund for Latin America and the Caribbean (SFLAC by its acronym in English), the Global Environment Facility (GEF), the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, and with the collaboration of many other organizations.

This Conference is an interdisciplinary high level forum, with the participation of decision makers and professionals from Latin America and elsewhere. It aims to serve as a platform to discuss how cities are facing the challenge of introducing best practices of transport, while fighting climate change, reduce air pollution, noise reduction, and urban commuting.

After the event, lunch will be served.

Please, RSVP here: <http://cleanairinstitute.eventbrite.com/>

La Embajada de España en Washington D.C., la Alcaldía de la Ciudad de Rosario, Argentina y el Clean Air Institute se complacen en presentar el Lanzamiento Oficial de la Conferencia de Transporte Sustentable, Calidad del Aire y Cambio Climático en América Latina y el Caribe el 23 de marzo, de 12 a 14 horas, en la Embajada de España en Washington DC (2375 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20037) . El evento se centrará en la identificación de oportunidades de cooperación enfocadas a organizaciones multilaterales, fundaciones, empresas y otras entidades para su participación en la conferencia, así como en los programas que se están llevando a cabo en la región para mejorar la movilidad urbana y combatir el cambio climático.

La Conferencia tendrá lugar entre los días 11-14 de Mayo en la ciudad argentina de Rosario, con el apoyo del Fondo Español para América Latina y el Caribe (SFLAC por sus siglas en inglés), el Fondo Mundial para el Medio Ambiente (FMMA), el Banco Mundial, y el Banco Interamericano de Desarrollo, así como con la colaboración de otras múltiples organizaciones.

Esta Conferencia constituye un foro interdisciplinario de alto nivel, con la participación de tomadores de decisiones y profesionales del ámbito de América Latina y otras partes del mundo. Tiene el propósito de servir como plataforma para discutir cómo las ciudades se están enfrentando al reto de introducir mejores prácticas de transporte, mientras que combaten el cambio climático, reducen la contaminación del aire, el ruido y el tiempo de traslado de las personas.

Tras la finalización del evento, se servirá un almuerzo.

Sent by: Elle Beard

As you may know, EPA and Peace Corps recently agreed to sign a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) for the purposes of broadly strengthening institutional ties between the two agencies and of furthering cooperation in international projects in support of broad environmental program initiatives.

EPA and Peace Corps' new partnership highlights this Administration's commitments to better engage youth, expand the conversation on environmentalism, and support local solutions for communities here at home and around the world.

I am pleased to invite you join Administrator Jackson and Peace Corps Director Williams as they formally announce the new partnership on Tuesday, December 14th from 1:00 - 2:00 pm in Conference Room 6530 ARN.

Immediately following the Administrator's appearance, OITA will be facilitating a discussion from 1:30-2:00pm with invited EPA and Peace Corps staff to brainstorm opportunities for specific collaboration focused on environmental education, cookstoves, and community based monitoring and planning more broadly.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Elle Beard at 202-564-7723.

I look forward to seeing you there!

Hi John, here's the blurb on Pascual, complete with photo.

U.S. Ambassador to Mexico Carlos Pascual

President Obama nominated Carlos Pascual as the next United States Ambassador to Mexico. The United States Senate confirmed the nomination on August 7 and Ambassador Pascual was sworn in by the Mexican government on August 9, 2009.

Ambassador Pascual has had a 23 year career in the United States Department of State, National Security Agency, and United States Agency for International Development (USAID). He served as coordinator for Reconstruction and Development Assistance in the Department of State, where he led and organized U.S. government planning to help stabilize and reconstruct countries in conflict or civil strife.

Ambassador Pascual was Coordinator for U.S. Assistance to Europe and Eurasia (2003), where he oversaw assistance strategies to promote market-oriented and democratic states. From October 2000 until August 2000, he served as U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine. From July 1998 to January 2000, Ambassador Pascual served as President and NSC Senior Director for Russia, Ukraine and Eurasia, and from 1995 to 1998 as Director for Europe and Eurasia. Prior to 1995, Ambassador Pascual worked for USAID in Sudan, South Africa and Mozambique, and as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Europe and Eurasia.

Most recently, Ambassador Pascual was Vice President and Director of the Foreign Policy Studies Program at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. Ambassador Pascual received his M.P.P. from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University and a B.A. from Stanford University in 1980. He has served on the board of directors for the National Endowment for Democracy and the Internews Network. He has also served on the Advisory Group for the United Nations Peacebuilding Commission.

Happy New Year Teri,

I hope you had a great Christmas and are getting some time off this week. That time with the OITA folks works fine. Thanks so much for setting it up. Sorry they were such a hassle to deal with.

Hi Teri, Happy New Year! Per my voice mail to ya, the first mtg. below with Bob P. and Michelle, Michelle will like to know if their first mtg. can happen mid-January. January 18th at 3-4:30pm work for Bob?

The second mtg. with John Beale, both Shalini and Michelle are available 2:30pm on Jan. 11th. They can meet in Michelle's office for 20 or 30min.

Let me know if these times work for both mtgs. Thanks!

Lakita,

The deputy (Bob P) would like to schedule a meeting in early January for 1.5 hours - Subj: General Overview of OITA's work. (Note: He has regular program updates with all the other AA offices and would like to also start scheduling regular updates with your office.)

John Beale, works for Gina McCarthy (he is one of her deputies) and he would like to schedule a meet and greet with Michelle and Shalini together, if possible. Gina just recently sent out a note saying that he is resuming his role as the lead for OAR's international work. Beth Craig has moved to another office in OAR.

Thanks for your assistance in helping me to get these meetings scheduled.

Hi Jay, Good to hear from you. I heard that you were involved in this. I personally would enjoy a briefing on this effort. Please contact my assistant, Lynda Garland, to get it scheduled. I am copying her on this note. She also can be reached at 202-564-2902. I hope you are doing well. Best, Steve

Hi Steve, Congrats on your new appointment - glad to see an Arizonian in such a leadership role. I wanted to reach out to yourself and Marthy regarding the rather large Sustainability Index initiative for consumer products. This effort is being led by the Sustainability Consortium in partnership with some of the nations / worlds largest retailers and manufacturers. The Consortium is comprised of leading academic researchers from universities including Arizona State, Arkansas, Stanford, Cal, Harvard, Michigan, UCSB, Duke, Cambridge, Tec de Monterrey etc. Our industrial partners include firms like Wal-Mart, P&G, Dell, HP, Unilever, General Mills, as well as NGO's and governmental agencies cluding EPA and European agencies.

The goal of this effort is to create a unified and transparent approach to quantify the "sustainability" impacts of consumer products throughout the life cycle including consumer and post consumer use phases. The retailers are committing to include this in their purchasing decisions and ultimately consumer facing thus hopefully reducing greenwashing and consumer confusion. Emphatically, this is about driving innovation to address our most important national sustainability imperatives.

We have been very fortunate to have been working with some highly dedicated and creative folks at EPA including Clare Lindsay who is copied on this note as well as folks from DFE, Energy Star, Innovations etc.

What I would like to offer is for a couple of us from the Sustainability Consortium to come out to EPA to provide both you and Marthy as well as any others from EPA background and details of this effort. I think it is important for you and the new EPA administration to be aware of this effort and to determine ways we can even more effectively partner in this process.

Please let me know if you need any additional information. If the meeting makes sense, if you can put me in touch with someone to assist in the scheduling that would be most appreciated.

I look forward to talking to you in the near term.

All my best, Jay

John,

I apologize for not getting the briefing for Gina drafted for your review today. I have been working on it, but other things have gotten in the way. I have spent some time going over some of the most recent literature to try to update the quantitative estimates of intercontinental transport and its significance. I will continue to work on this and get you something as soon as I can.

Hi John,

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me, by email. After today, I will be traveling to China, but I will still have access to my email. In an emergency, I can also be reached on my cell phone (203-745-9682), but the time in China is 12 hours later than on the east coast.

I'm not sure what your schedule will be for coming to New Haven, but in case you are coming in the night before, I would like to invite you to join us for the welcoming banquet for the delegation. There will be a short reception at 6:00 pm, followed immediately by dinner in the main hall of the Greenberg Conference Center (where you will be giving your lecture). Please let me know if you will be able to join us.

Hi Alan,

Nice to hear from you and I apologize for my tardy response. I am glad to hear that you are continuing this program. It seems like exactly the type of long term investment we need to be making with China.

I am in the process of retiring from EPA and will be fully retired by June. Thus I will be unable to represent EPA in your program. If you are still looking for someone I highly recommend another of Gina's deputies Janet McCabe. Janet knows the Clean Air Act inside and out, is responsible for nearly all the tough domestic implementation issues, and is a terrific person. Before coming to EPA she was the head of the air program in Indiana.

You can reach her at 202-564 7400.

Thanks again Alan. I wish you continued success in the great work you are doing.

1. BROWNER MOVING UPSTAIRS? Energy lobbyists are hearing reports that the White House may be promoting Carol Browner, President Obama's top aide on energy and climate issues, to be his deputy chief of staff. While one energy lobbyist calls it a "credible rumor," the White House won't confirm it. "Not accurate," an administration official e-mailed National Journal when asked about it.

POLITICO

Browner's green blues

By: Glenn Thrush and Darren Samuelsohn

September 26, 2010 06:06 PM EDT

It's a measure of Carol Browner's growing influence in the West Wing that she's been given the coveted key to the taupe-accented kingdom — President Barack Obama's personal BlackBerry e-mail address.

The administration's so-called energy czar is just about the only high-ranking official to emerge from the BP oil disaster with an enhanced reputation — making her, some say, the most powerful woman in the White House next to Obama's longtime friend Valerie Jarrett.

Yet even as Browner's stock rises, her rationale for remaining by Obama's side is declining. The collapse of the administration's comprehensive climate change effort — a career-long goal for Browner — has stoked rumors that she'll head for the exit rather than settle for an incremental, vastly scaled-back energy agenda.

And some environmental advocates, deeply disappointed that Browner didn't have enough clout to push climate change to the top of Obama's agenda, blame her for the debacle. "The real challenge at the top is, Carol Browner is not a strategic thinker," griped one environmental advocate with close ties to the administration.

"It makes a lot of sense for her to go," said another top environmentalist, who thinks Browner has been pragmatic but also the most committed friend of the greens in the West Wing. "If you were her, would you stick around to watch your dream being dismantled?"

Browner brushed aside — but didn't completely rule out — an early departure in an interview with POLITICO. "I'm enjoying what I do . . . I don't have any date [to leave]," said Browner, who served a bruising eight years as head of Bill Clinton's Environmental Protection Agency, the longest tenure of any Clinton Cabinet official.

Browner, who briefly considered a Senate run in her native Florida back in 2000, has no taste for elective office these days but is at no loss for private-sector options. During the Bush administration, she served on the boards of green nonprofits while earning a handsome living as an environmental adviser to private companies as a founding member of The Albright Group.

If Browner decides to stay in the White House, she can expect a bureaucratic slog — one senior administration official said there's only "a tiny chance" the Senate will take up the comprehensive climate change bill during the lame-duck session. And Democratic leaders have even less ambitious ideas for climate over Obama's next two years, assuming they're even controlling Congress.

Obama aides said the loss of Browner would be a serious blow at a time when Obama is looking to recalibrate his energy agenda and defend against coming attacks. Besides, she's one of the few Clinton veterans the president genuinely trusts — with Obama often taking Browner's side during internal policy debates.

Browner, brought on board by Obama Transition Director John Podesta, talks with the president almost daily and e-mails him even more frequently. In addition, she is one of only three or four female staffers who regularly attend chief of staff Rahm Emanuel's 7:30 a.m. meeting, along with a dozen or more male officials, aides said.

Many environmentalists, too, would be sad to see her go, as would feminists who decry the paucity of women in Obama's inner circle. Add to that a small handful of Senate Republicans who hint at revisiting climate change once the polarizing midterms have passed.

"I heard, by reputation, she was some environmental wacko, but I didn't find that at all," said Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), who pulled the plug on bipartisan talks over the summer.

On the other hand, a Browner departure would be the gladdest of tidings for industry lobbyists who think she is a green zealot like her former boss Al Gore.

And while she's managed to insulate Obama from the wrath of many environmentalists on the left — one of them referred to her as the president's "green Teflon" — some say Browner and the White House legislative affairs team erred by refusing to negotiate a scaled-back deal when prospects of a bigger cap-and-trade bill evaporated for good earlier this spring.

"They never had a legitimate legislative strategy to get 60 votes in the Senate," said an environment expert who worked with Browner in the Clinton administration. "The consequence of that is the policy they really do believe in has been damaged beyond recognition politically."

Union of Concerned Scientists President Kevin Knobloch said he's not sure why Obama and Browner didn't release a written plan to drive the climate debate. "I personally don't understand why it wasn't translated into, early on, a legislative outline that then leadership in the House and Senate could work from," he said.

Browner has just as many defenders. Brian Wolff, director of communications at industry group Edison Electric Institute, was impressed by her tenacious lobbying in June 2009 during the House climate bill vote. Wolff said he was surprised Browner exhibited a similar level of intensity during a meeting with utility CEOs this summer, when the effort was on the verge of being declared dead.

"She's very methodical; she's very to the point. Some people are offended by it. But I think it's her biggest strength," added Wolff, a veteran Democratic operative.

Those traits served Browner well when the administration scrambled to cope with the fallout from the Deepwater Horizon oil spill in the Gulf. White House insiders said that Obama and Emanuel were deeply frustrated by bureaucratic tangling during the first days of the spill and felt that the response needed a strong, centralized command based in the West Wing.

The 54-year-old University of Florida graduate, who had no real background in emergency management, was involved from the start, as was Jarrett, who handled the sensitive issue of how to deal with local officials highly critical of the federal response.

But aides said it was only after Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano, Interior Secretary Ken Salazar and EPA Administrator Lisa Jackson proved unable to coordinate the massive interagency effort that Obama and Emanuel tapped Browner to quarterback.

"She knew how to put together all the pieces," said an administration official involved in the talks.

Browner filled another void as a spokeswoman who could reassure the American public at a time when no one knew how long the spill would last — or how dire the environmental and economic consequences would be.

The Miami native, who once snorkeled in the Florida Keys when she was eight months pregnant, comes across as approachable but unflappable on TV. But she flinched when White House staffers informed her she had been booked for the May 30th Sunday morning shows.

Browner spent two days nervously honing her message -- and dragooned her staffer Jake Levine for beer, leftovers and a mini-murder board session.

After it was over, White House officials, from Obama on down, told Browner she had struck the right tone. At the time, Browner had wanted, perhaps naively, to turn the BP spill to her advantage, hoping it would jump-start the moribund climate change bill in the Senate. It didn't happen.

"People just weren't talking about it," she said. "The vast majority of people — it really surprised me — they moved on very quickly."

With no forward momentum, Browner is now forced to play defense.

In the short term, her energy will be consumed fighting off challenges to EPA's authority for writing climate-themed rules in the absence of congressional action.

And she has already assembled a to-do list for the end of this year and 2011: new emissions standards for tractor-trailers and large trucks, a series of EPA rollouts and a bipartisan legislative push to enact new national standards for renewable energy, a move backed by some industry and environmental groups.

A year ago, Browner and the small green team she oversees in the Old Executive Office Building had much more ambitious goals. But she lost her first and most important battle on climate change early in Obama's term, when the president and his brain trust, including her old friend Emanuel, pushed comprehensive climate change to the back of the legislative queue, behind the health care reform effort.

"The clock ran out," she said. "You had health care taking far longer than anyone anticipated."

Browner and her aides flatly refuted a report that Emanuel scuttled her plans to draft a set of legislative principles, a charge leveled in Bloomberg Businessweek Deputy Editor Eric Pooley's book "The Climate War."

But that hasn't quelled the what-if speculation by embittered environmental activists, who say Browner's strategy — which included generous deals on nuclear power loan guarantees and the lifting of the offshore drilling moratorium — didn't result in a single GOP defection to the legislation.

For Browner, the setbacks evoke a “Groundhog Day” feeling. She had Bill Clinton’s superficial commitment to climate policies in the early 1990s but had to fight for attention amid Hillary Clinton’s disastrous health care reform push.

In 1994, newly minted House Speaker Newt Gingrich made systematic attacks on the EPA, with no fewer than 16 legislative “riders” to defund or derail Browner’s regulatory agenda.

“This is somewhat reminiscent to me” of the ’90s, she said of the current mood. “It feels very similar. You’ve got a lot of attacks on ... the use of the regulatory authorities.”

Instead of folding, Browner dug in. She proposed the most sweeping air pollution regulations in her agency’s history, cannily using authority that bypassed the GOP-controlled Congress.

A decisive moment of Browner’s career came during an Oval Office meeting when Clinton canvassed a handful of advisers to see if they backed Browner’s smog and soot regulations.

Clinton’s economic and political advisers had just finishing trashing her plans, when Clinton shouted, “What do you think?” to Emanuel who was walking into the room.

Emanuel paused, then blurted out, “I agree with her.”

Clinton eventually backed Browner and she, in turn, never forgot the favor Emanuel did her.

In 2002, when Emanuel was locked in a tough Democratic primary against Illinois State Representative Nancy Kaszak for a Chicago House seat, Browner campaigned for him, despite opposition from women’s groups, including EMILY’s List.

Later, a puzzled Emanuel approached Browner to ask why she was so dedicated to his cause.

A Democrat who worked on the campaign said that when Browner recounted his role in the EPA debate, Emanuel shrugged: He’d nearly forgotten the whole episode.

The United States still stands by its promise to slash global warming pollution despite the Senate's decision to abandon climate legislation this year, U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change Todd Stern said yesterday.

In an interview with ClimateWire, Stern said the Obama administration is "not backing away" from its Copenhagen pledge to cut greenhouse gas emissions 17 percent below 2005 levels in the coming decade and more than 80 percent by mid-century. He also laced into critics who say America's failure to produce legislation this year will have dire consequences for treaty talks.

Todd D. Stern, U.S. special envoy for climate change

"People who frame this all around whether there is U.S. legislation or not, that if there's legislation we're in the end zone ... I don't believe that," Stern said. "It's not the magic bullet, and it's also not the thing that sinks the ship."

This week Stern's negotiating team meets in Bonn, Germany, for a mid-year United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) session aimed at developing a new global treaty. And after months of recriminations and finger-pointing over the contentious Denmark conference that produced the Copenhagen Accord, leaders say most countries are finally ready to craft some practical agreements to help make the voluntary pledges in that document a reality.

At the same time, several negotiators told ClimateWire that the Senate's inaction has produced a fresh wave of disappointment toward the United States and concern about whether America will in fact ever join a climate change treaty (see related story ).

Stern maintained that while U.S. legislation cutting carbon is critical, its absence does not change the dynamics for 2010.

"The fact that we don't have it right now will certainly affect the atmospherics of the negotiations, but the fundamentals of it aren't different," he said.

"At the simplest level, nothing is changing with respect to the submission we put in the Copenhagen Accord. We're not backing away from that. Somebody asked me the other day, 'What is the U.S. going to put on the table?' There's nothing else to put on the table. We've got it on the table. The President has made it perfectly clear that he's committed to energy and climate legislation, and we will press on," he said.

There is no 'Plan B'

It's the message he and others have carried consistently across the oceans these past months as the bill's prospects dimmed. Energy attaches for various European embassies in Washington tell ClimateWire they have repeatedly asked the State Department what America's "Plan B" is for the next major climate summit scheduled for Cancun this December. The answer: There is no Plan B.

Belgian delegate Peter Wittoeck, speaking for the 27-member European Union in Bonn yesterday, said U.S. officials continue to affirm they will live up to Obama's pledge, adding, "They say they are confident that they will find a way of getting there." And in an interview with ClimateWire last week, France's lead negotiator Brice Lalonde said he heard the same tune at an informal meeting in Mexico recently. Europe, he said, has no choice but to take the United States on faith because, "Who can we trust if we cannot trust the president?"

Under the Copenhagen Accord, the United States, Europe, China, India and every other major emitting countries promised to either reduce emissions or limit the rate of emission growth. Developing countries made concessions in allowing their mitigation targets to come under international review, and industrialized countries promised to raise $30 billion for the immediate needs of vulnerable nations and $100 billion annually by 2020.

President Obama's pledge there to cut emissions 17 percent below 2005 levels was widely derided as insufficient by Europeans and developing countries. Administration officials like Stern, however, argued that America was behind the curve on emission cuts because Congress ignored the issue during the Bush years. While near-term targets might seem small, they repeatedly pointed out, the hefty mid-century goals were really the key.

Now, policy experts say, the Obama administration has a difficult story to tell. While America could reasonably meet its 2020 promises with regulatory actions through U.S. EPA, reining in emissions over the later decades really requires legislation.

Stern, for his part, sidestepped a question about how America meets its goals after 2020, saying "The fact that there's no legislation this year in 2010 for a 2020 target doesn't begin to mean that there's not going to be legislation on this issue. ... Legislation is our primary objective, but there also will be any number of ways to move forward."

A scapegoat or a leader?

In fact, he argued, even if the United States did have a domestic bill cutting carbon already under way, other countries would still likely resist components of the Copenhagen Accord. Others went even further, suggesting that countries like China and India are happy to have American inaction as a scapegoat to mask their own objections about entering into legally binding treaty.

"It's easier to have the U.S. as a foil than not," said Mark Helmke, a top aid to Sen. Richard Lugar (R-Ind.).

Leaders have widely acknowledged that a final treaty in Cancun is unlikely. While the actual goal of that conference remains unclear, negotiators repeatedly said in Bonn today that they want to see "progress" there on issues like transparency, money for vulnerable countries and protecting tropical forests.

Stern echoed that as well, saying the United States doesn't want to see Cancun "as just a way station that kind of marks time until the next session next year in South Africa."

He described himself as "realistically hopeful" for the future, saying he believes that countries, including the America, will eventually sign a global treaty and that the U.S. Congress will enact climate legislation.

Said Stern, "Do I think that we are going to permanently fail to take on the obvious critical challenges facing this country? I sure hope the hell not."

One thing Graham is right about: Obama 14

by David Roberts

1 May 2010 11:44 PM

- Email Author

Read More About

One aspect of the Graham-Reid flustercluck has gone underappreciated.

Atrios, Digby, David Dayen, and other lefties think that Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) is just being a giant douchebag. His intention was always to string Democrats along, water down the climate bill, and bail at the last minute.

I've heard from some folks in the green movement, who obviously aren't willing to say so on the record, that the fault is Reid's. He jammed immigration up front to save his own tail and has thereby doomed both bills.

What both are missing, and what Graham is right about, is Obama .

The climate bill has always been a long shot, flying in the face of both elite skepticism and public indifference. Only one thing could possibly have put it over the top this year: an all-out campaign by the Obama administration. Graham thought he would get that. He expected to be in the spotlight, visiting the Oval Office, for all the world a Very Important and Bipartisan man.

What has become clear, to Graham and anyone else paying attention, is that Obama is not going to do an all-out push. If nothing else, his response to the Gulf oil disaster has made that clear. If he was looking for an opportunity to drive home the clean energy message, this was it -- the Katrina of fossil fuels. Yet all he's done is blandly reaffirm his support for offshore drilling. I haven't heard a word about clean energy alternatives or, God forbid, efficiency, which if pursued seriously could save more oil than offshore rigs could produce, at a net savings rather than a cost, and with the added bonus feature of not occasionally leaking out and destroying entire American ecosystems and industries.

Only Obama could have given climate clear, top priority, and that's the only way it could have passed. But he sat by passively as Reid and congressional Democrats pushed immigration into the mix. There will be no immigration bill this year, and between financial reform, immigration, and a Supreme Court pick, there won't be time to mount a serious campaign for the climate bill either.

Purely on the politics, Obama and the Dems made the right decision. Immigration is a base-mobilizing issue heading into the midterms. The immigration movement has been galvanized by the Arizona law. They're marching in the streets all across the country and openly pressuring the Dems. They have energy and numbers, they're mobilized, and they turn out the vote. I'm not sure the environmental movement can say the same. (Where are the protests over the oil spill?)

Climate would have fired up an already activated GOP base, while the left grassroots had already soured on the bill and "centrists" never liked it. Rahm Emanuel and David Axelrod have been urging the president to steer clear of climate ever since the post-ACES debacle last summer. They think, correctly, that it's got low odds of success and high odds of blowback.

Despite all that, the fact remains that this year was probably the last chance to pass a climate bill for the foreseeable future. The Democrats are expected to lose substantial numbers of seats in the midterms, wiping out the big House majority that allowed Pelosi to get the ACES bill through and putting climate in the Senate even further out of reach. (You thought appeasing Graham was bad. How bad would a bill have to be to get six or seven Republican votes with a presidential election looming?)

At this point the future for climate legislation is murky. Despite the purported "inevitability" of carbon restrictions, they don't seem feasible any time in the foreseeable future. Even EPA carbon regulations are under attack. The U.N. climate process has withered waiting on U.S. action; it could now crumble entirely.

It would have taken an extraordinary act of leadership for Obama to champion climate in the face of these political headwinds. He would have been gambling his administration and Democratic majorities with no clear expectation of success. I think the problem is of sufficient magnitude and urgency that such leadership is demanded of him, morally and politically. Obama doesn't. Graham wasn't wrong to notice.

NEGOTIATIONS: U.S. climate bill isn't the key to a global treaty -- U.S. envoy (05/11/2010)

Congress may not pass an energy and climate bill by the next round of global climate negotiations in Cancún this December, the Obama administration's envoy to the negotiations said yesterday, but that does not mean there won't be progress on efforts to craft a binding treaty to replace the Kyoto Protocol.

"I hope to get it this year. If we don't get it this year, we'll keep pressing to get it next year," Todd Stern told reporters in Mexico, referring to the energy and climate bill. "Whether the legislation is done or not by the time of Cancún we will be working hard to get a good outcome there, and there is every reason to think if countries work together the right way there will be a good outcome.

"So useful, yes, but a good outcome is obtainable one way or another," Stern added.

The energy and climate bill, designed by Sens. John Kerry (D-Mass.), Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) and Joe Lieberman (I-Conn.) is slated for release tomorrow, but Graham has pulled his support for the bill and claimed it has "become impossible" to pass it (E&E Daily , May 10).

Some backers of a binding international climate treaty say it will be difficult to reach such an agreement unless the United States moves unilaterally to shrink its own carbon footprint. The Kerry-Graham-Lieberman bill would set a target of reducing U.S. greenhouse gas emissions 17 percent from 2005 levels by 2020.

The December talks follow last year's negotiations in Copenhagen, which did not result in a binding treaty but produced the Copenhagen Accord. Countries agreed to "take note" of the text, which will serve as a framework for this year's talks.

Stern said he does not expect to finalize a binding treaty in Cancún, but would consider the round of talks successful if negotiators reach agreements on thorny issues such as greenhouse gas reductions and adaptation aid for developing countries (Alexandra Olson, Associated Press, May 10). -- GN

CLIMATE: White House affirms commitment to comprehensive bill (01/21/2010)

Darren Samuelsohn, E&E senior reporter

A senior White House adviser rallied to the defense today of comprehensive climate and energy legislation despite questions from moderate Senate Democrats about pushing a controversial bill at a time of voter revolt on the economy.

"There continues to be very strong support among a range of legislators for comprehensive climate legislation that includes cap and trade," said Gary Guzy, the deputy director of President Obama's Council on Environmental Quality.

Guzy, speaking at a conference hosted by the ICF International consulting group, said Obama would make the public connection in the coming months between the overall climate and energy measure and his broader push toward economic recovery.

"The president believes that the inclusion of a transformation of the economy to a clean energy economy is a critical part of achieving our country's economic recovery, so we will continue to work to address that comprehensive set of issues," Guzy said.

Moderate Senate Democrats -- including Carl Levin of Michigan, Tom Carper of Delaware, Dianne Feinstein of California and Robert Casey of Pennsylvania -- questioned yesterday a push for a sweeping climate and energy bill when voter angst is centered around the economy. They spoke a day after Republican Scott Brown's surprise victory in the Massachusetts special election to fill the Senate seat of the late Ted Kennedy.

"It's going to be very hard to do something on that in the next weeks and months," Casey said.

"And after that, I can't tell. But we have to have substantive strategies on job creation."

Several moderate Democrats have also urged Obama to slice off cap-and-trade provisions and promote an energy-only measure. But Guzy said the administration was not planning for a less-aggressive Plan B.

"We're working to be able to accomplish comprehensive legislation," Guzy said.

Obama officials are relying on Sens. John Kerry (D-Mass.), Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) and Joe Lieberman (I-Conn.) to come up with the sweeping bill that can then be conferenced with House-passed global warming legislation. The trio are meeting daily on their bill and hope to produce a product for floor debate by the spring. Graham yesterday said he is pleading with GOP colleagues to support a cap on emissions in exchange for an expansion of domestic energy resources, from offshore and onshore drilling to nuclear power.

"I've got a lot of Republicans who are really excited about the energy part," Graham said yesterday. "What I'm telling them, and what I'm telling y'all, if you want energy independence, the way to get there is through cleaning up the air, and we'll see what happens."

Dear John,

Thanks for getting back to me with approx travel costs, if you could let me know next week if you are able to attend the meeting in Washington that would be great.

The discussion paper will be sent out by Friday 25th of May.

Kind regards,

Emma

Emma,

Thank you for your note and I apologize for my tardy response. I have been traveling in areas with no access to email but am back in Washington for a few days at least

As my schedule now stands I will need to return to Washington from a fairly remote location for the meeting. As I mentioned in my earlier email I will not need a hotel room. , I also will not need a daily per diem allowance.

I do not have a final price for my plane ticket but estimate that it will be approximately $1200. In addition I will need to be reimbursed for some ground transportation (less than $200) and taxi fares (less than $100).

As a caution I should mention that there remains a reasonable chance that will not be able be able to break away from my previous obligation in order to attend this initial meeting of the advisory group. I expect that I will know for sure early next week.

I hope this information is helpful. If you need any more information let me know. I will have email contact until Saturday. After that it will be sporadic at best. Do you have any idea when the discussion papers will be available?

Thanks again for all you help.

Gina,

We are scheduled to have a one on one meeting at 6PM today

In the interest of no surprises, the subject I want to discuss with you is the future management of the international work in OAR now that Jim is coming on board (a very good thing in my view).

See you later today, if not before.

Hi Gina,

Just a quick note to let you know that things are progressing well here and that it looks like I will be able to keep to the schedule we discussed a couple of weeks ago.

As of now I will return to the States on Sunday and be back at EPA essentially full time starting Monday.

I say essentially because for a month or two there may be an occasional day or two that I need to spend assisting with some wrap up/transition matters.

Hope you are well. See you on Monday.

Not only is it Thoracic but it is Schraufnagel...

ATS President Rejects Legislation that Would Lead to Unlimited Carbon Pollution

American Thoracic Society President Dean E. Schraufnagel, MD, today expressed "grave concerns" with legislation released by House Energy and Commerce Committee chairman Fred Upton (R-MI) and Senate Environment and Public Works Chairman Jim Inhofe (R-OK) to make changes to the Clean Air Act.

"The Clean Air Act is one of the best public health success stories of the past four decades and has saved thousands of American lives," said Dr. Schraufnagel. "Any effort to revise the Clean Air Act should be carefully considered and focused on enhancing the public health benefits – not on granting big polluters a free pass to increase the amount of carbon pollution they pump into the air."

The legislation proposed by Rep. Upton and Sen. Inhofe would allow polluters to emit unlimited amounts of carbon pollution into the environment.

"The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that under the Clean Air Act, the EPA must issue standards to address carbon emissions," said Dr. Schraufnagel. "The legislation introduced today, runs counter to the U.S. Supreme Court, undermines protection of nation's clean air and continues to leave the United States vulnerable to the adverse health effects of climate change. This legislation would encourage polluters to emit carbon pollution into the air that adversely affects public health and increases global warming."

Although the potential health effects of global warming are not fully described, experts predict an increase in heat-related deaths and the number of people suffering from respiratory diseases.

Subject: Past anti-CAA bills

I am trying to think if there has ever been a bill (since 1970 at least) where Congress has tried to remove authority for EPA to regulate a contaminant under the CAA in a case where EPA has found that the contaminant endangers health/welfare. (Or for that matter, a bill that has removed all CAA authority for a substance regardless of whether EPA has made an endangerment finding).

So far I cannot think of an example. Most of the EPA-authority-trimming bills I can think of did things like requiring a study before EPA could regulate (eg, mercury for power plants in 1990 law) or did things like delay non-attainment designations, or remove some pollutants (eg, HAPS) from coverage under some programs (eg, PSD) but none of these completely eliminate CAA authority to address specific pollutants that EPA has found cause harm.

Can you think of any examples?

Thanks

David

Too bad. She just gave me the final draft to review. Good summary, but it misses some of the key moments as they don't want to editorialize for their students. For some crazy reason they want to let them come to their own conclusions. Good pedagogically of course, but it dilutes some of the strategic insights. Oh well.

For lunch, Monday works. Are you at EPA? I'm happy to come over that way if so. Or over this way if that's easier coming in from VA.

Rob/John: I notice that Ai-Ling didn't include you in this email. Did she ever reach out to either of you? I strongly encouraged her to chat with one or both of you, but she may have decided that chatting with Gina, John Mitchell, and me was sufficient for EPA perspective (little does she know how govt works...). I hope not.

If she didn't, the background is that she's doing a case study for Harvard Business School on Kris' partnerships office here at State, but with a heavy focus on cookstoves and the Alliance – and including much (I hope) history on EPA's role and PCIA. We have no authorship on it (won't see it until next week), but I spent several hours with her giving her my take on the history, as well as suggesting people that she talk to from different USG agencies and other entities (Alliance, Shell Foundation, stove companies, etc.).

Heading to Dallas Thurs for a long weekend. Perhaps I'll be able to see a Rangers playoff game, in anticipation of a Rangers-Nats World Series. (Rob – yes, I'll root for the Nats. John – to translate, this is baseball I'm talking about.)

Jacob,

Thank you so much for all of your help and support! There is no way this case would have happened without you!

Just wanted to let you know that I just sent out emails to the following people below to authorize and confirm the accuracy of their quote(s) for the case study. All they have to do is send a quick email back to me stating that their words are reflected accurately. I am asking everyone to send their confirmation by end of day tomorrow so that we can continue to move this case along. If you have a quick moment, do you mind sending a friendly email to the people below encouraging their response to my email titled, "Quote Authorization for Harvard Business School Case Study on Global Alliance for Clean Cookstoves". Please note, people within State, like yourself and Thomas, will not need to sign off on your quotes because Kris will be authorized to do that on behalf of the State Dept.

- Gina McCarthy (EPA)
- Kathy Calvin (UN Foundation)
- Alfredo Artiles (KPMG)
- John Mitchell (EPA)

By the way, we expect to have the finalized case to Kris by early next week for final approval, assuming we have everyone's confirmation in a timely manner.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks again for all of your help! This really has been a phenomenal first project for me!

Joe,

I am probably unable to attend the meeting at 1400 today. It will probably last about 90 minutes and Gina plans to stay for about an hour.

I know you are swamped also. Drusilla can fill in for Gina, as she did last year, if you can't. No worries.

Wonderful. Lunch is Jeremy's treat. A few restaurant ideas are Elephant & Castle on 12th, Asia Nine at 9th, Aria Trattoria or your choice. Please select a restaurant and I'll make the reservation for noon on Thu, Feb 10.

Look forward to your choice.

Thanks.

Sorry I missed your call-I was in a closing.

The expiration date for the unpaid creditors to file an objection is October 2nd. I haven't received any objections to date. After the October 2nd date, we will close our file unless an objection has been filed.

I just ordered the certified copy of the Letters and sent copies of the estate documents to Michael and Louis. I should have the certified copy within a week and will send that out to you.

He said you are still the "most reasonable of men" He made an intervention today to say..."I always believed you needed to separate Climate Change negotiations and their pollutants from other international action. I no longer feel this way. They are failing and we have a regional problem (the Arctic) and an air quality problem (ozone). We should move forward and get quick action now on methane and ozone." I think he also may be "the most reasonable of men."

Important Note: For access to State Dept. On Friday – you will need to supply DOB, nationality and passport number (with photo ID). Please send to me, and copying in Emma, at least 24 to 48 hours in advance.

For those of you who are unable to attend on this occasion, we would be very grateful to receive any comments you may have on the papers. If we can have them ahead of the meeting that would be very helpful.

Many thanks for your cooperation and looking forward to your inputs

Best Regards

Dear Colleague,

Facilitating the Development of SLCP Action Planning in Developing Countries

Thank you very much for agreeing to join the International Advisory Group (IAG) for this project. We very much look forward to exploring with you over the next two years the numerous challenging issues raised by the project. We are particularly grateful to those of you who are able at short notice to attend or be represented at the meeting in Washington on May 31st and June 1st. For those of you unable to attend we will be in touch prior to the meeting so that your comments may still be tabled.

The meeting will open at 5.00 pm on the Thursday 31st May at the Georgetown Inn (where accommodation is being arranged for you) and continue over an informal supper at 7 pm. The meeting will then resume at 9 am on the Friday 1st June at the State Department (venue to be confirmed), finishing about 3 pm that day. We will also be planning more informal meetings with you in Washington during the day on the 31st May.

Please find attached a provisional annotated agenda for the meeting which will give you an indication of the main issues which we would like to discuss with the IAG. The final agenda and supporting papers will be circulated a week before the meeting; by 25th May.

Meanwhile, for those of you who may not have seen them, please be informed that the two UNEP reports which were a formative influence on current international policy initiatives on SLCPs, and provide much on the context for the project can be downloaded at:

<http://www.unep.org/dewa/Assessments/Ecosystems/ClimateChange/tabid/7002/Default.aspx>.

The key documents are:

- Integrated Assessment of Black Carbon and Tropospheric Ozone
- Near-term Climate Protection and Clean Air Benefits: Actions for Controlling Short-Lived Climate Forcers
- HFCs: A Critical Link in Protecting Climate and the Ozone Layer

An outline of the project was attached to your IAG invite as an annex but I attach it again here for your convenience.

Our colleague, Emma Holland (nee Wright - recently married for those who know her already) is available to provide any assistance you may need with travel arrangements or other matters. (+44 1904 432 897; emma.wright@york.ac.uk). If there is any matter you would like to discuss in advance on the substance of the project and the agenda, please do not hesitate to get in touch with me. We look forward to being in touch again a week before the meeting, and to seeing many of you in Washington on May 31st.

Best Regards
Kevin

We are going to go the whole way on Friday, August 10. I think we can get into the house at 2:00 on Saturday...and be entertaining by...whenever you arrive. If the weather is good, we will plan on beach, cocktails and/or dinner...all depending on your trip and how you feel. IF we do dinner, we will do it early, as I assume you will want to get to Truro (where the sharks are biting)...before it gets too late. If you get on the road, and decide you just want to go on to Truro, I totally will understand. Northern Maine means a very long trip for you...and if this sounds like a good idea today, but by Saturday afternoon, you and Nancy are burned out and want to change your plans...DO NOT WORRY! We will figure out when to get together later in the week, even though it would just be you. We are flexible, and understand driving fatigue!

Linda,

We would both really enjoy some time with team Fisher so if the 11th works that would be great with us. On the other hand we are sensitive that it can be difficult having visitors within a few hours of arrival.

We will be driving in from northern Maine. I am guessing that we would be passing thru the Dennis area sometime between 1600 and 1800. We could easily adjust that to suit your schedule. And as you said, there are always restaurants.

Wow! Vacations are for relaxing! Did you forget? Don't rule out the 11th yet, depending on when you would be passing through Dennis. We don't get into the house until 2:00 ish....but we may come up Friday and stay at Elaine Stanley's Friday night. I still have to figure this out, but will close on it this week. We could do beach, cocktails, or dinner...depending on your schedule.....or, if we are in total chaos, God invented restaurants for just such occasions! If that works best for you two, we can make it work. Fall back, you could come out later in the week. I will be in touch. Linda

The better news is that if all goes well I should get back to the States sometime this weekend and should be around for awhile.

The good news is that we also should get to the Cape on August 11 and some combination of Nancy and I would love to see team Fisher
. Now it gets complicated.

On the 11th Nancy and I will be arriving on the Cape from Maine. We could stop and see y'all but you are just arriving that day as well so that would not be good for you. We have company coming the 12th for several days and Nancy has to be in NYC the 13th until the 18th. The day you leave.

This vacation sudoku sometimes makes my head hurt.

Unless something changes looks like it will be tough to find a day when both Nancy and I could see team Fisher but I could come your way Wed or Thursday of that week.

All of this is contingent upon my current state of knowledge and I have been "in the field" and out of cell/internet contact until tonight. I will talk to Nancy in the morning and get back to you if there are any changes.

In the meantime-got any better ideas?

We are coming the week of August 11 through the 18 ( and then headed to the dreaded Nantucket:). I hope we will have a chance to see you and Nancy. I think it is our turn to host you...but we can work on that once I find out if we get to see you!

Hope you are well.

Linda,

Hope your trip back was uneventful and thanks for your note. We are really sorry to have missed the clan this summer. Doesn't feel like an official summer without seeing you all.

You are correct that between Calypsos plans changing, family reunions, and several unexpected work demands it has been a pretty chaotic summer. Sorry that we did not get settled at the Cape sooner. There is always next year, but let's not wait that long.

John, we are headed home today. I am so sorry I didn't contact you and Nancy, I thought you were not up the past two weeks because you were connecting up with Calypso before he gets redeployed. We all talked about you and how not hooking up (or at least planning to!) was a sad break from tradition. We spent three days in Nantucket, and did not make it past Eastham. Maybe we can get together when you are back in the City. Enjoy the waves from "Bill". Linda

Your second week we will be in Vermont for a vacation from our vacation. Looking forward to seeing the entire Fisher crew. Would be happy to come your way, or...if whale watching is not to passe, perhaps you'll could come out our way for an early morning whale watch trip, lunch and the dreaded P-town shopping, and then beach time and dinner at our place....

Got it. I look forward to talking with Keenan. Timing sounds good. The timing of the tides is such that the most fun waves (if there are any) will be after 4PM. We may want to do a "tame" swim event like a fresh water pond first then hit the surf later. The NPS thing is really a kids event and we have seen it a couple of times. We would love to have team Fisher stay for dinner but certainly understand if you want to get back earlier. If the surf is good it will probably be hard to get the kids ( I include my self in that count) out of the water before 1730. We could probably have dinner around 1900. Just to give you a sense of timing. You can decide when you get here. See y'all tomorrow....

Thursday is perfect. We will head to Ptown and plan on being at your house about 12:30 for lunch and beach. I will check out the NPS event on line, but I think we will not plan on staying for dinner. If there is terrible weather that day we can restructure the day!

Keenan is going to do an internship at EPA. There are a few things that I could use your support on, and maybe you could talk with him about:

1. In a work setting, it is okay to ask for clarification, and ask questions when you are confused or don't understand. This is hard for him. Even asking teachers for help is a real challenge.
2. Speaking up is what makes you stand out, so don't hesitate to participate.
3. How to handle the "I knew your mom" stuff; but also not to bring me up.
4. Clothes, what do guys wear at EPA these days. Does he need ties?
5. People will know you are only 16, and therefore only expect what a 16 year old can do.

He is excited, nervous, proud, scared....and by and large very quiet in new settings....but this will be good for him. It will be with Mary Louise Uhlig out of OPPTS, with duties yet to be assigned. She has had a series of high school interns, so has some experience with this. More when we see each other.

Depending on weather you'll could do the P'twm thing in the AM and then come here for a light lunch before we all do a swimming thing (beach or pond depending on tides and how we all feel). At 6PM on Thursday there is a re-enactment of a life saving event (including the firing of a life saving cannon) by the NPS if you are interested and we can have dinner after. you can check out the re-enactment at www.nps.gov/caco. if this works for you just give us a call when you are leaving P town and we will be ready for you. 508-487-9874.

Thanks for the kind note Linda and glad to here that the rest of you vacation was great. It is always a special treat for us to get together with team Fisher.

The bike trip was great. 400 miles and 28000 ft of total elevation gain. I will tell you all about it. Over and over and over again.

I did have a chance to talk with Keenan about his internship and the issues you had mentioned. Kelly actually brought up the internship so I think the conversation was very "natural". Martha was great as she took Kelly off on a water adventure while Keenan and I talked for about 20 minutes.

Nancy is working for Bill on the commission and I am at an airfield about to head off to monsoon land.

Take care. Talk with you soon.

John and Nancy, we got home on Saturday, and I am already counting the days until next summer. We continued to have great weather....only a couple of cloudy days on Nantucket. Loved the island, the stores (Martha and me) and the waves (all of us). Thanks so much for having us to your home....it really is a big part of our Cape traditions. John, I hope the bike trip was successful, and you met some interesting people to ride with. Nancy, tucked into my beach bag was your water bottle. If you have been searching high and low for it, you can relax. I will keep it safe until our next get together. Hope this finds you both well, well rested, and hopefully still at that lovely home of yours.

Thanks again.

Dr. Jackson-Cherry,

My name is John Beale. I am a Deputy Assistant Administrator at the US Environmental Protection Agency and a military veteran. I am also nearing the end of my current career with the Federal Government and giving some thought to several different options for my next career.

One of the options I am considering would be to obtain the training and credentials necessary to work as a mental health counselor with a particular focus on working with veterans.

I have heard great reviews of your program and have had a couple of helpful phone calls with Jackie, your program coordinator. In response to my request to speak with someone in more detail about the program itself and what the work and personal life of a mental health counselor is like, she suggested that I contact you.

If you have the time, I would very much appreciate the opportunity to meet with you, share a little more of my background and interests, and get your sense of my compatibility with your program and profession.

I currently have a BA from the University of California, a MA in international relations from Princeton University, and a law degree from New York University.

Feel free to contact me at this email or my personal email at jcbeale@ mac.com, or 703-525-6369.

Wondering if you have yet to make a decision on which of the options you plan to pursue out of the three we discussed. I continue to see a need for some one working directly for Gina to pull senior staff from the various air offices on to one page in terms of the future strategy.

We will be in Chatham from August 15th to September 6th. If it works for you and Nancy lets attempt to find a time to get together. Extended family will take up the first week then we have a little breathing room.

We are looking forward to seeing you Thursday evening, rain or shine. Drinks and hors d'oeuvres will be served on the ship, which has ample enclosed indoor space for everyone. and is well-suited for cruising in any kind of weather.

Directions:

Captain Eric warns us that many GPS systems guide users to the wrong location. Please go to the link below, and read the directions carefully. The entrance is on Maine Ave, just west of the Fish Market and south of the Mandarin Hotel (via pedestrian walkway). If you are driving, the dock is best approached from 15th Street because Maine Ave is one-way at the entrance. (Or, the Smithsonian Metro stop is only 3 blocks away). The link also includes low-cost parking options.

Jacob,

Great to hear from you and that you will be on the Cape that week. Sorry for the slow response, been out of touch for awhile.

I hope to be on the Cape that week and it would be terrific to see you then. At this point things are a bit up in the air for me (so what else is new I hear you thinking) but I should have a better idea by the second half of this week. is it OK if I get back in touch with you then?

Rob/John: I notice that Ai-Ling didn't include you in this email. Did she ever reach out to either of you? I strongly encouraged her to chat with one or both of you, but she may have decided that chatting with Gina, John Mitchell, and me was sufficient for EPA perspective (little does she know how govt works...). I hope not.

If she didn't, the background is that she's doing a case study for Harvard Business School on Kris' partnerships office here at State, but with a heavy focus on cookstoves and the Alliance – and including much (I hope) history on EPA's role and PCIA. We have no authorship on it (won't see it until next week), but I spent several hours with her giving her my take on the history, as well as suggesting people that she talk to from different USG agencies and other entities (Alliance, Shell Foundation, stove companies, etc.).

Heading to Dallas Thurs for a long weekend. Perhaps I'll be able to see a Rangers playoff game, in anticipation of a Rangers-Nats World Series. (Rob – yes, I'll root for the Nats. John – to translate, this is baseball I'm talking about.)

Jacob,

Thank you so much for all of your help and support! There is no way this case would have happened without you!

Just wanted to let you know that I just sent out emails to the following people below to authorize and confirm the accuracy of their quote(s) for the case study. All they have to do is send a quick email back to me stating that their words are reflected accurately. I am asking everyone to send their confirmation by end of day tomorrow so that we can continue to move this case along. If you have a quick moment, do you mind sending a friendly email to the people below encouraging their response to my email titled, "Quote Authorization for Harvard Business School Case Study on Global Alliance for Clean Cookstoves". Please note, people within State, like yourself and Thomas, will not need to sign off on your quotes because Kris will be authorized to do that on behalf of the State Dept.

- Gina McCarthy (EPA)
- Kathy Calvin (UN Foundation)
- Alfredo Artiles (KPMG)
- John Mitchell (EPA)

By the way, we expect to have the finalized case to Kris by early next week for final approval, assuming we have everyone's confirmation in a timely manner.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks again for all of your help! This really has been a phenomenal first project for me!

Too bad. She just gave me the final draft to review. Good summary, but it misses some of the key moments as they don't want to editorialize for their students. John and Nancy, we got home on Saturday, and I am already counting the days until next summer. We continued to have great weather....only a couple of cloudy days on Nantucket. Loved the island, the stores (Martha and me) and the waves (all of us). Thanks so much for having us to your home....it really is a big part of our Cape traditions. John, I hope the bike trip was successful, and you met some interesting people to ride with. Nancy, tucked into my beach bag was your water bottle. If you have been searching high and low for it, you can relax. I will keep it safe until our next get together. Hope this finds you both well, well rested, and hopefully still at that lovely home of yours.

Thanks again.

Hey Jake,

John called me back today while I was at lunch. I was sorry to miss the call.

He'll be back in mid-July and wants to get together then.

Would you mind forwarding this message to him so he has my e-mail and the rest of my contacts?

Thanks again,

Patrick

Subject Next Week

Here is what next week and thereafter looks like for me.

Mon and Thurs I will have to be out in VA so will not be driving in to EPA. I will be driving in (so we can car pool) on Tues, Wed and Friday. I have no idea what Nancy's plans are, nor does she in my opinion.

I am free for lunch Tues if you want me to join you and Linda. I don't have any need to so it is truly great with me if you would prefer a one on one with her.

As things look now I will need to do an international trip beginning sometime next weekend. Duration unclear. Probably one to two weeks.

Of course all of the above could change anytime.

Thanks again for FN. Have a great brunch.

Hi Thad,

Just saw both your emails. Great to hear from you and looking forward to seeing you at the party.

As you can tell we are making this a rather unconventional retirement festival. I hate the usual boring office retirement parties with long winded and often insincere speeches from politicians, etc. So for this event the policy is no one gets the microphone except the three of us. I am even trying to keep each of us to 4 minutes.

The only problem with this approach is that, as you suspected, it rules out great, creative, and fun ideas like your video.

I hope I can convince Rob to show it to me.

Glad you can come to the party.

I just wondered— I know Rob is (probably you all are) averse to fanfare, extended tributes etc.

But we recorded a short musical tribute to Rob, shamelessly cribbed from everyone's favorite Beatle album ("But He Left Us All Friends.") Not sure what the arrangements for the party are and whether it would fit in anywhere, but could I send you a copy of the DVD and get your opinion? If so, where should I send it, i.e., are you still going to the office?

Thanks for humoring me—look forward to seeing you there.

Subject Back at Last

Hi Love,

So it is late here and I am exhausted. About to go to bed. We are back and things went well. A day of meetings to wrap up tomorrow, a farewell dinner, and a late night/early morning flight out of here. The plan is I will get to Boston Tues evening (in time for a Cape Air flight I hope). Spend Wed at the Cape then drive home on Thurs.

Yes I remember about the best laid plans...but you gotta have hope...

We are going to go the whole way on Friday, August 10. I think we can get into the house at 2:00 on Saturday...and be entertaining by...whenever you arrive. If the weather is good, we will plan on beach, cocktails and/or dinner...all depending on your trip and how you feel. IF we do dinner, we will do it early, as I assume you will want to get to Truro (where the sharks are biting)...before it gets too late. If you get on the road, and decide you just want to go on to Truro, I totally will understand. Northern Maine means a very long trip for you...and if this sounds like a good idea today, but by Saturday afternoon, you and Nancy are burned out and want to change your plans...DO NOT WORRY! We will figure out when to get together later in the week, even though it would just be you. We are flexible, and understand driving fatigue!

Linda,

We would both really enjoy some time with team Fisher so if the 11th works that would be great with us. On the other hand we are sensitive that it can be difficult having visitors within a few hours of arrival.

We will be driving in from northern Maine. I am guessing that we would be passing thru the Dennis area sometime between 1600 and 1800. We could easily adjust that to suit your schedule. And as you said, there are always restaurants.

Wow! Vacations are for relaxing! Did you forget? Don't rule out the 11th yet, depending on when you would be passing through Dennis. We don't get into the house until 2:00 ish....but we may come up Friday and stay at Elaine Stanley's Friday night. I still have to figure this out, but will close on it this week. We could do beach, cocktails, or dinner...depending on your schedule.....or, if we are in total chaos, God invented restaurants for just such occasions! If that works best for you two, we can make it work. Fall back, you could come out later in the week. I will be in touch. Linda

The good news is that we also should get to the Cape on August 11 and some combination of Nancy and I would love to see team Fisher
. Now it gets complicated.

On the 11th Nancy and I will be arriving on the Cape from Maine. We could stop and see y'all but you are just arriving that day as well so that would not be good for you. We have company coming the 12th for several days and Nancy has to be in NYC the 13th until the 18th. The day you leave.

This vacation sudoku sometimes makes my head hurt.

Unless something changes looks like it will be tough to find a day when both Nancy and I could see team Fisher but I could come your way Wed or Thursday of that week.

All of this is contingent upon my current state of knowledge and I have been "in the field" and out of cell/internet contact until tonight. I will talk to Nancy in the morning and get back to you if there are any changes.

In the meantime-got any better ideas?

Subject: Shell Foundation feedback on the Executive Director role

Dear Reid, Richenda and Leslie,

Thank you for putting the Executive Director job description together. We share your view that getting an ED in place is one of the Alliance priorities. I am sure you would also agree that getting the 'right' ED in place, not just any ED is as important if not most important.

I would like to share with you a few thoughts and feedback linked to the current Job Description and process:

Alliance strategy and Ambition level

As discussed verbally with UNF last week, but not yet expressed to other core partners (hence me writing it here) we have several outstanding issues that leads us to think we should delay publishing this for 2-3 weeks:

- We all seem to agree on the Alliance's overall objectives but we haven't discussed strategy: what exactly will the Alliance focus on and in what order. This discussion will impact the kind of ED we want to search for. If we (the core partners) feel the focus of the Alliance should be on 'Directly Supporting the Stove Market' then we may want someone with direct stove experience, or at least someone with experience in running businesses selling stoves or solar lanterns or water purifiers in the developing world. If, on the other hand, we decide the main aim of the Alliance is to attract resources into the sector by raising awareness amongst the global community then we'll want a great communicator, possibly with a decent existing public profile.

- Things are moving very rapidly at the moment in terms of commitments to the Alliance. Two months ago we had 250,000USD. Now (albeit indirectly) we have $50m. In another month we may have several tens of millions more. The size of the Alliance's resources – and ambitions - impact the stature of the ED. Are they running a small entity or something substantive. We will know more about this in the next few weeks, which suggests to us we should again hold on publishing the ED JD for a few weeks.

Core partner consultation

We haven't had a discussion amongst the core partners about what our 'ideal candidate' would look like. While we accept there is some merit in the argument that we can get the ED JD out and then have these discussions later, for the sake of a week's delay we think it makes sense to have this chat – then send out an ED that reflects this discussion.

Ideally I would like to make this part of an in-person meeting, although I do realize that the 1st opportunity to do so would not be earlier than the week of the 21st. I don't think we should postpone our conversation that long though.

Language

The current JD language does not focus enough on finding a candidate with the skills to help create a 'thriving global cookstove market'.

I am forwarding this email to the wider group of participants inviting them to (also) provide their feedback.

Warmest regards,

Jeroen Blüm

Hi Bill,

Looks like Saturday afternoon will work for John and Nancy if it still works for you. I'm suggesting that we could get together at the Quarter Deck Inn, which is a casual seafood restaurant in Arlington, pretty close to the Memorial Bridge. We're also open to other suggestions if there is some place else you want to try. 5:00 or so would be a good time for us.

Unfortunately, it looks like this will be another work weekend for the OPAR alums up on the Hill. But I'll invite Steve Cochran if this all comes together.

Hope to see you Saturday,

Rob
